WE NOMINATE

Herbert Ephraim Alexander, able political scientist and director of the Princeton-based Citizens Research Foundation, who is energetically and quietly pushing to completion the work of one of the most intriguing commissions brought into being by the Kennedy Administration—the nine-member, non-partisan study group known as the President's Commission on Campaign Costs. The order creating this task force directed it "to consider the costs of campaigning in presidential elections and to recommend improved ways of financing essential expenditures of the major party nominees for president and vice president."

In an era when costs of campaigning on all levels of government have attained astronomical proportions, and at a time when major political groupings are abandoning traditional stands in favor of liberal or conservative manifestoes, the 34-year old Alexander and his associates are analyzing all existing statutes as well as any proposed legislation bearing upon a broadened financial base for political campaigns. Very much on their minds is the statement President Kennedy made in appointing the commission: "To have presidential candidates dependent on large financial contributions of those with special interests is highly undesirable in these days when the public interest requires basic decisions so essential to our national security and survival."

Alexander, who has been concerned with the role of money in the political process since he entered upon graduate studies at the University of Connecticut, recently pointed out that "we are concentrating on such topics as disclosure of campaign contributions, the question of tax credits or deductions for political contributions, direct subsidies to the parties, indirect subsidies such as extending mail franking privileges to candidates, and the cost of radio and television broadcasts." His commission, he went on to state, is "trying to determine what the political parties themselves can do and what can be done on the community level—by corporations and labor unions, for example."

A native of Waterbury, Conn., whose major scholarly interests include "suburban politics and government," Alexander left the University of North Carolina midway through his undergraduate career, served in Korea with the U. S. Army, and returned to Chapel Hill to graduate with his class on an accelerated program. He earned his master's degree at the University of Connecticut in 1951 and moved on to Yale for his doctoral degree. Probing for a topic for his Ph.D. dissertation, he came up with a report on "the role of the volunteer political fund-raiser." This brought him into association with Alexander Heard, distinguished "graduate dean" at North Carolina and chairman of the study commission Alexander is now quarterbacking.

After working closely with Dean Heard in 1954 and 1955 on a penetrating study of "money and politics," Alexander spent a year with the U. S. Chamber of Commerce and joined Princeton University's Department of Politics in 1956. On July 1, 1958, he was elevated to the directorship of the Citizens Research Foundation (245 Nassau Street), an organization that has been growing steadily in stature. On leave from his duties here through April 30th, the deadline for the presentation of the commission's findings to President Kennedy, Alexander is the author of two of the Research Foundation's four publications on campaign fund-raising, "Money, Politics and Public Reporting" and "Tax Incentives for Political Contributions."

For his pioneering efforts in an area of increasing concern to American voters; for his contributions to public understanding of the political activities and spending both by management and labor; for bringing to bear on political problems the insights and skills of the trained analyst; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee for

This Is PRINCETON

"DEAR EDITOR"

The Customers Always Write. It is not surprising that residents of a highly literate community should express themselves in as interesting and forthright fashion as Princetonians do when they find themselves impelled to write a letter to the editor. Even in its early years, TOWN TOPICS often found that such contributions from volunteer correspondents invariably achieved a high degree of readership.

This week has been productive of upwards of a half-dozen communications, widely varying in subject matter and reflecting a number of intriguing opinions. Among the subjects which drew comment are Mrs. Courtland Perkins' heroic rescue of young David Ludlum; the forum on fall-out shelters sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce; and the proposal by the Board of Education that it acquire 18 acres of Westminster Choir College land.

The most forceful reaction from this week's correspondents was reserved for TOWN TOPICS' music critic, whose review of pianist Malcolm Frager's recital aroused a segment of outspoken opposition. The review was the work of David Hamilton, a professional in his field who holds graduate degrees in music from Princeton and Harvard and is currently Music and Record Librarian at Princeton.

TOWN TOPICS does not feel it essential to defend Mr. Hamilton, not only because it considers him wholly qualified as a music critic but because he states his own case aptly in this issue. TOWN TOPICS does, however, believe strongly that letters taking exception to Mr. Hamilton's views should be confined to the opinions he expresses, omitting comments of a personal nature. Those appearing in this issue are published with his fore-knowledge; others in the future, invariably welcome if they differ on the subject of critical comment, will be edited if they stray from the target. It is TOWN TOPICS' contention that since Mr. Hamilton reviews an artist's performance on stage, reactions to his writing should be limited to his own performance in print.

A Moment's Contemplation.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The recent heroic rescue of a little boy by one of our fellow townswomen deserves a few moments of contemplation from each of us. It focusses our attention once more upon values which seem to have been all but forgotten in recent months.

Margaret Mead has suggested that the increasing perils of the age of nuclear warfare may necessitate our assuming responsibility for the safety of the children of our enemies while they do the same for our children. This is an inspiring concept, for the same reason that Mrs. Perkins' was an inspiring act.

It may well be that the only way to save ourselves, individually and collectively, is to concern ourselves first with the safety of others. Even if this is not possible, would it not be far better to perish in an attempt to preserve the concepts of selflessness and heroism, than in a craven effort to save our own skins?

Shelter "Forum" Protested.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I would like to protest publicly about the way in which the Forum on Fallout Shelters of last Thursday evening was conducted. What was called a forum was in fact a lecture.

Moral and politicol questions were ruled out of order when we were told that the only topic of discussion would be the effectiveness of shelters and not whether they were a good thing. But not even effectiveness was "discussed;" it was assumed and then "presented."

The result was neither genuine scientific inquiry nor public discussion, but technological data in the service of propaganda.

What is urgently needed is a public meeting on the shelter problem which assumes that one question cannot be answered in isolation from another, and a discussion which not only admits but encourages disagreement.

Who Planned Ahead?

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I was somewhat surprised at Graham Rohrer's statement published in TOWN TOPICS last week in which he accused Westminster Choir College of a "public be damned" attitude in its desire to hold on to the 18 acres which the Board of Education wishes to buy or seize by condemnation.

Westminster as a college has as much concern as the Borough Board of Education, it seems to me, for serving the public, and it is unfortunate that Westminster which had the foresight to prepare for its future growth may be penalized by others who did not.

Even if Westminster had been in a position to spare half its campus (which it obviously could not), is it altogether wise for the borough schools to be concentrated in the one area?

Under Whose GUIDANCE?

by A. N. SPANEL, Chairman
International Latex Corporation

In the perspective of history, the imposition of full independence upon peoples utterly unprepared to govern themselves will assuredly be rated among the bizarre tragedies of our times. And as a case study of the aberration, historians will surely cite the former Belgian Congo.

An aggregation of tribes, many half-civilized, a "nation" only by grace of colonial map-drawing, the Congo was launched on the seas of sudden sovereignty to sink or swim. Inevitably it sank at once—into an abyss of grisly violence, economic anarchy and tribal wars. Blacks and whites alike have suffered unspeakable cruelties and privations ever since.

The United Nations attempt to restore a modicum of order merely compounded the chaos. The adventure finally reached its ghastly and ironical climax in the recent UN war against Katanga, the one relatively stable and prosperous segment of the ex-colony. In the process, the all-important unity of the free world has sustained a devastating blow. For once more, as in the Suez Canal crisis in 1956, the United States has chosen in the Katanga crisis an unnatural alliance with the Kremlin against natural allies like Britain, France and Belgium.

Meanwhile the communists, who thrive on catastrophe, are well deployed to pick up the pieces and weld them into another Soviet satellite.

No end to the turbulence and bloodletting is in sight. Whatever the outcome of the gang-up on Katanga, the Congo will be unable, for at least a generation, to shoulder the burdens and responsibilities of self-government and economic order.

DESPERATELY NEEDED GUIDANCE

Belatedly, more and more Americans are beginning to grasp this hard truth. They realize that there can be no stability in the Congo without long and intensive education and training. The most knowledgeable among them, moreover, realize that only Belgium has the indispensable experience and insights to provide intelligent guidance looking toward a gradual assumption of political and economic functions by the Congolese.

At an early stage in the sad business, on September 12, 1960, we urged in these columns that Belgium be permitted to retrieve its blunder in yielding to pressures for premature Congo independence.

"Having built that region's economy from absolute zero to the point where its resources are vital to the free world," we wrote, "the Belgians are the best fitted to channel economic assistance rationally and fruitfully.

"The dollars we give should be channeled through the Belgians, earmarked entirely for the Congo. They alone could prevent American and free-world aid from being recklessly squandered by a handful of self-appointed Congolese leaders, the most ambitious of them (Lumumba) already a creature of the Kremlin.

"It is the best part of wisdom and self-interest for the West to cease its unfair and corrosive fulminations against Belgium, a stalwart ally. That is the precondition for using the Belgian potential of technology and experience to bring the Congo nation back on the rails of sanity. Anything less plays into the eager hands of Khrushchev and Mao Tse-tung."

THE LIGHT

Unfortunately the free world, reduced to paralysis by "anti-colonial" slogans largely of communist manufacture, preferred to malign the Belgians and drive them out of the Congo. It is heartening, therefore, to find at last that a political analyst of Walter Lippmann's stature in effect acknowledges this error. In his column on December 26, 1961, he asserted that "there can be no solution except through some kind of tutelage." Then he writes:

"Where shall the tutors be found? The Soviet Government, no doubt, would be quite willing to try to provide them. But we could never tolerate the establishment of Soviet power in the heart of Africa. The United States, if it were asked, would not be willing to provide the tutors. For with our own unsolved problems, which come from Africa, we know that we are not now qualified for such a task.

"As a matter of fact there is only one nation qualified to supply the tutors. That nation is Belgium."

Mr. Lippmann, however, sees an obstacle to that solution: "The obstacle is the memory of the colonial past. Apart from that, the Belgians are uniquely qualified by knowledge and experience." As a desperate substitute, and only because he sees no "tolerable alternative," he accepts the idea that the United Nations should undertake the tutelage, through experts recruited "from all over the world, including Belgium."

We venture to suggest that the "obstacle" is more imaginary than real. Insofar as "the memory of the colonial past" is operative, it applies to all Europeans and indeed all non-Africans. A United Nations label will not exorcise the past. In the explosions of violence, the Congolese have raped, looted and murdered whites and blacks indiscriminately, and not only Belgians.

IMPERATIVE NEEDS

The people and leaders of Katanga — the economic heartland of the Congo and its least backward area — not only want cooperation of Belgians but resist UN pressures for their expulsion. Whatever the difficulties of tutelage in the rest of the Congo, they would be faced by United Nations personnel no less than by Belgians. And since Belgium is, by experience and knowledge, best prepared to tackle the task, logic and common sense demand that it be turned over to that country.

This, we submit, is the one sane road to a viable solution. Moscow and its cohorts in the UN would protest vehemently — and with good reason, since Belgian tutelage, supported by American and free-world economic aid, could effectively bar communism from the Congo.

If the United States can muster the wisdom and the political courage to sponsor this solution, a new beginning will have been made not only in the Congo but in Africa generally.

BUDGET UP 20%

For Township Schools. Reflecting the sharp rise in expense caused by construction of Community Park School, the Township school budget for 1962-63 is 20 percent higher than the current budget.

The Board of Education will ask voters to approve $1,694,336, a budget larger by $360,353 than the present one. The public hearing will be held next Thursday, January 25, at 8 p.m. at Valley Road School and copies of the budget will be available at each Township school and at the Stony Brook administration building from this Friday.

If the budget is approved, its effect will be to raise the present school tax rate 19 cents for each $100 of assessed valuation. This means $19 on a $10,000 house. The present rate is $1.347, the new will be $1.54.

School Board member John Donal has pointed out that 75 percent of the increase is due to increased enrollment and 25 percent to the pursuance of Board policies, such as increasing teachers' salaries and modernizing textbooks and equipment. Enrollment is expected to to rise from 1,830 to 1,950.

Rateables Help. Mr. Donal also cited the $5½ million increase in Township rateables for the year, and said that if rateables had remained stationary at $93 million instead of increasing to $98.5 million, the school tax rate on a $10,000 house would be $28 higher instead of $19.

The budget pie divides into 47.5 percent for instruction, 21.9 percent for fixed charges, 11.2 percent for debt, 7.9 percent for operation of plant and the remainder for transportation, administration, health, capital outlay, maintenance, food, student activity and so on.

The proposed salary budget for teachers calls for an increase of $90,050. Of that, $54,500 will provide for 10 new teachers and $35,500 will provide salary increases under a schedule adopted, with the Borough, in 1959.

John J. McKenna

One of the largest Township budget items is tuition to the Borough for the estimated 615 students who will attend Princeton High School. The Borough has increased next year's tuition from $625 to $635, making the Township's budget item for tuition $390,525.

Dr John J. McKenna, superintendent of schools, said that, if the Township had its own high school, the per-pupil cost would be just about the $635 yearly now paid to the Borough.

Interest Less. Another large item is debt service. The Board pointed out that interest charges on the Community Park bond issue will be $5,000 less than the original estimate because of the favorable interest rate obtained this week when the bonds were sold. This amounts to $45,000 savings over the life of the bonds.

State aid to the Township is estimated to be $170,173. Of this amount, $32,000 is transportation aid. The state re-imburses the Township 75 percent of the cost of all legal riders; that is, riders under the two-mile limit.

FIRE TRUCK IS TRIGGER

For Three-Car Accident. A fire truck on its way to a minor fire in the University's Cuyler Hall precipitated an accident involving two other cars at the Nassau-Harrison intersection Monday afternoon.

Red light flashing and siren wailing, the truck, driven by George B. Rollings, 37, 16 Pelham, emerged from North Harrison through a red light into Nassau Street, striking the left side of a car driven by Alfred Kornegay, 38, 302 John Street, heading west on Nassau.

The impact forced Mr. Kornegay's car into the path of Mrs. Josephine Lee, 55, Rocky Hill, driving east on Nassau. The entire right and left sides of the Kornegay car were damaged by the double blow. The truck sustained slight damage and continued on.

Mrs. Lee, suffering from contusions, and Mr. Kornegay, with fractured ribs, lacerations of the chin and a broken tooth, were taken to Princeton Hospital by the First Aid and Rescue Squad.

Mrs. Marie L. Riddering, 61, RD 1, Princeton, is recuperating in Princeton Hospital from a fractured pelvis, fractured coccyx and lacerations suffered when she was struck by a car while crossing Route 27 late Thursday near Franklin Park.

A car driven by Raymond C. Barringer, 31, also of RD 1, struck Mrs. Riddering after she had alighted from a bus. State police issued a careless driving summons to Mr. Barringer.

Hits Truck. Salvatore Squitieri, 52, 403 Mt. Lucas Road, escaped serious injury Friday morning when he collided with a tractor-trailer on Route 206 and Cherry Valley Road. He is in Princeton Hospital recovering from a concussion and scalp lacerations.

Mr. Squitieri was driving out of Cherry Valley Road having waited at the "stop" sign when, according to State Police, he pulled out into the highway in the path of the truck, was struck by it and then rolled over.

The Princeton First Aid Squad took Mr. Squitieri to Princeton Hospital where State Police gave him a summons for failing to yield the right-of-way.

Peter Talarick, 32, of Rocky Hill, was the driver of the truck.

Ray Richards, 8, 26 Jefferson Road, was knocked to the pavement by a cyclist Monday as he was crossing Nassau Street at Moore after school.

He was struck by William Venable, 21, University student, who was given a summons by Borough police for disregarding an officer's signal. Police say that Mr. Venable bicycled into the intersection in spite of the officer's upraised hand. Ray was only bruised.

Mrs. Mary P. McLaughlin, 33, Belle Mead, broke two five-by-eleven foot windows in the Shopping Center branch of the University Cleaners late Monday afternoon when she lost control of her car and crashed through the glass. She was not injured.

COMMITTEE MEETS

On Dogs, Variances. Township Committee spent most of an hour Monday night discussing a proposed dog-control ordinance and decided that Gordon Griffin, who is both Township and Borough attorney, should prepare identical ordinances for introduction in both municipalities.

Challenged by Committeeman John S. Mount, (pro-total-restraint) to show what changes, if any, the proposed ordinance would make, Com-tucle about the Board of Education's wish to buy or condemn 18 acres belonging to Westminster Choir College and Westminster's determination to fight to hold on to its land (which must represent about half its campus").

Westminster chose to come to a cultural and educational center like Princeton in good faith, and it seems to me the College has reflected real credit on our community ever since.

But it's not just the unfair treatment Westminster may receive that disturbs me so much as the dangerous precedent which may be established by such seizure. Will the Seminary, the University, or the Institute be next to have acreage taken away?

It's a sobering thought!

Critic Angers Reader.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

This is going to be an angry letter—not from an angry young man but from an angry old woman. I haven't been really angry for 15 years and find it exciting to be in so young a mood, ready to cross swords with two critics (one, yours, the other writing for The Packet) who reviewed the concert of January 8 at McCarter Theatre by the pianist Malcolm Frager.

The reviews, as they are euphemistically called, cover about two columns of diatribe against the playing, the interpretation, the judgement, the musical sensitivity of this young artist who recently won the Leaventritt and the Queen Elizabeth of Belgium awards. If jurors were chosen from among such critics, no awards would be made, if such critics were taken seriously, the musical public would stay away from concerts. The critics might settle for electronic music, where the strain of hearing compositions re-created through the medium of human beings, with their irritatingly varied feelings and frailties, would be eliminated. Or they could just sit down with the scores.

I would like to change from crossing swords to playing tennis with our critics. The balls are words which we serve over the net to each other. THEIRS: unsteadiness, unimaginative, lack of sensitivity, dull, plodding, stiff, out of proportion, shapeless, mechanical, bad phrasing, muddy, pedalling, tasteless rubato, grotesque, poor choice of tempi.

MINE: immature, discourteous, harsh, supercilious, captious, condescending, pedantic, unfair. Such a score could no add up to a love game, nor nearly a hate game, which is not only not tennis but isn't cricket either.

To give the devil his due I should point out that Mr. Frager was said to know enough to "begin his trills on the upper note" and to display "more than adequate technical resources" in the Chopin Scherzo. One encore was praised by both critics and both encores by one.

There were so short there was no time for the painstaking kind of autopsy that was performed on the body of the program. Encores come as a surprise and it was heartening to note that when the critic were thrown off guard they thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

Now that I have finished this I am not quite so angry.

Dyspeptic Critic.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Just who your dyspeptic reviewer of music is, I do not know. I am content not to know.

For more than 50 years it has been my good fortune to hear musical programs of excellence by persons who have earned the right to be ranked among the best. I have read the reviewers' comments on these programs.

Never have I encountered such carping fault-finding, such unwillingness to recognize the good qualities of performers, and such niggardly praise of excellence as I have found lately in your music column.

It is, after all, the obligation of any critic to evaluate and praise the good, as well as to castigate the poor.

NORMAN H. WRIGHT
Cranbury

"Outraged Music-Lover."

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Your critic's "review" of the concert given by Malcolm Frager brings to mind the apocryphal story of Toscanini and the weeping 'cellist. Noticing the flow of tears, the Maestro interrupted rehearsal to ask the man what was wrong. A death or an illness in his family, perhaps? "No, Maestro", the 'cellist replied, crying even harder, "it's just—it's just that I hate music!"

Clearly your critic does not hate music, but he certainly knows what he dislikes. He writes well, is erudite, and has an instinct for the jugular. This is standard equipment for the budding critic who, when wisdom and good manners are added, may grow into the sort of creative criticism which is certainly needed on the musical scene.

Meanwhile his occasional rudeness may be justified if

News Of The THEATRES

SHE'LL BE HERE

Genevieve, This Friday. An all-new musical revue, "From Paris with Love," will bring the French star, Genevieve, to Princeton this Friday at 8:30. The star will appear with her company in McCarter Theatre.

With Mlle. G will be Luc Poret and Gus Viseur, American entertainers Norma Doggett and Danny Carroll, an orchestra and various persons referred to by the press agent as aides-de-comedie.

The following attraction at McCarter will be the Alvin Ailey Dance Theatre, which will come to Princeton next Friday, January 26, featuring Carmen de Lavallade, former ballerina of the Metropolitan Opera.

"HAPPY DAYS"

Beckett at McCarter. When the curtain goes up on Samuel Beckett's short, two-act play, "Happy Days," the play's chief character, "Winnie," is asleep with her head on her arms. She is buried to the waist in a hillock of scrubby grass and clay under a merciless yellow sky whose heat is almost palpable.

An alarm clock rings twice. Winnie wakes, prays and begins one of her "happy days." For the duration of the act, she chatters with false good spirits, delves into an immense shopping bag for toothpaste, a beret with a feather, a gun, a mirror.

She examines herself in the mirror for wrinkles, tries vainly to read the fine print on a toothbrush handle, begins to quote inspirational verse but can't remember the lines, expresses gratitude for the "many mercies" she has been granted, points out the "wonderful" things about her existence and converses occasionally with "Willie."

Willie is laconic. Aside from an occasional quote from the classified section of his newspaper, he says little. During his brief sojourn on stage, he keeps his back to the audience and his own counsel and eventually crawls back into a mound like Winnie's.

In act two, the rising curtain finds Winnie up to her neck, unable to rummage in her beloved bag because her arms are buried. The banal good spirits of act one have worn thin. Time passes more quickly; the alarm clock rings often.

Winnie cries for Willie in despair, but gets no answer. Finally, he comes, crawling, in a full-dress suit. He does not speak. He grasps—for Winnie or for the gun?—but cannot reach the summit of the mound and fades to the ground. And so the play ends.

As theatre, "Happy Days" is a thin play. It lacks the tension and force of Beckett's "Endgame" and the deeply moving qualities of his "Waiting for Godot."

Carmen de Lavallade

Winnie is everyman, trapped and eventually engulfed by life, presented by life with a bag of possessions which can be used to while away the time between alarm clocks—between waking and sleeping, or between birth and death. The point is made early in the play and the two acts are largely reiteration.

What is lacking is a sense of progression. In "Godot", there is the suspense of the waiting; in "Endgame," there is the tension between tyrant and slave and the question of the slave's possible escape. "Happy Days," by comparison, seems static and slack.

Enigmas, of course, abound. Winnie herself asks early in the play "What is the Meaning?" She speaks cryptically of the "old ways" and one assumes that people have not always lived alone, mounded in by life.

Did she herself put all those petty, purposeless concerns into her bag, or was it handed to her full—does man make his own life, or must he use what's handed to him?

Is Willie, perhaps, God? She says it was He who gave her the bag, and she says of Him that "He asked me to be mine" and then never said another word to her. Is this, then, a God who thrusts people into the world, hands them a bag of tricks and abandons them? And Winnie says it comforts her to know that Willie might possibly be listening to her, even though he seldom answers. Yet Willie is, himself, a kind of prisoner, an impotent being who cannot attain his reach.

In the off-Broadway production brought to McCarter, there are two highly competent actors. John C. Becher has so little to do or say as Willie that one can scarcely evaluate him, but Ruth White gives an awesome performance as Winnie. She is restricted, of course, to using her voice, her hands and her head, and in the second act, only her voice and her upturned face.

Her mobile features serve, in the second act, in lieu of action. She rolls her eyes, takes a census of her features by wriggling them in turn, and conveys despair even in the angle of her imprisoned head. It is a tour de force of acting skill, carried off with complete success.

(The following review was written for TOWN TOPICS by Armand Hoog, Pyne Professor of French at Princeton University.)

TWO IN FRENCH

Offered at McCarter. It was a somewhat strange experience, last Saturday, to attend the production of "Huis-Clos" in French at McCarter Theatre. I had not seen Sartre's play since the time I watched one of the first performances in Paris, 18 years ago, a few weeks before the Allied landing in France began.

How odd to see the same play performed in Princeton (still in French), by another cast, in so different an atmosphere! The Treteau de Paris Company of Jean de Rigault, though sometimes a little inexperienced, is generally good and promising.

Mlle Marguerite Perrin, in my opinion, was outstanding, and did not make me regret Mlle Tania Balachova, who created the role of Ines in the first production. Still, how could I forget 1944?

As everyone knows, Sartre's "Huis-Clos" takes place in Hell. Hell is just a Second Empire drawing room.

There are no torturers, no tormentors other than those who are punished. No suffering is inflicted on anyone except by the sufferers themselves.

Hell, indeed, looks like that kind of life that was lived in Europe at the time Sartre was beginning to write his plays: a life consumed with unhappiness, embittered by vague remorse and the search for guilt, surrounded by silence and slavery, walled, shut up, without escape. The same obsession with confinement has inspired other works, such as "The Wall" by Sartre, "The Plague" by Camus, "L'Invitee" by Simone de Beauvoir.

It cannot be separated from a certain historical situation, which no longer exists today as it did 20 years ago. Now that "Huis Clos" has become a classic of the international theatre repertoire, it should be remembered that it was first, the play of a moment. This does not diminish it, rather it explains its universal value, which springs from a particular set of circumstances.

Perhaps Ionesco's "La Cantatrice chauve" was more appreciated by the French-speaking Princeton audience. This extraordinary play has been running continuously in Paris since 1954, a unique feat in a city, the only one of its kind in the world, which has 60 theatres operating every night. But "La Cantatrice Chauve" is an "anti-piece", a play written to destroy the traditional theatre by moans of parody, absurdity, and the ferocious indictment of petit bourgeois conversation.

The Smiths, the Martins, the fire chief do not live in the London suburbia, they live in the suburbia of 20th century existence. Mlle Jacqueline Staup, in the character of Mrs Smith, and M. Negro Verdie, as Mr. Martin, were particularly brilliant and hilarious.

TRY-OUTS SCHEDULED

For Pirandello. Tryouts for Luigi Pirandello's "Henry IV" will be held next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. in Murray Theatre on campus.

The Pirandello work will be given by Theatre Intime as its next production. Anyone interested in acting may try for a part, and anyone who cannot make the dates listed above may arrange for a try-out at another time.

THE PLAYHOUSE

The Roman Spring of Mrs. Stone (January 17-20) exploits the current popular theme of the degradation of men and women to the utmost with the story of a has-been actress trying to stay young through an affair with a Roman gigolo. The film is based on the only novel Tennessee Williams ever wrote (for obvious reasons).

Vivien Leigh portrays Karen Stone, the aging actress, with understated power and true genius, but she is hampered by a ghastly white make-up job which is too much to take. Warren Beatty plays the Italian gigolo strictly for laughs, and Lotte Lenya delivers a powerful picture of a procuress of gigolos for rich, American women in Rome.

Unfortunately, the picture is very slow-moving, with the most horrifying dramatic moment occurring even before the titles. During the preview showing, we heard one of the great critical comments from two rows behind us after half the picture had gone by: "Aw, come on. Let's go home."

In color. Comment: proof that acting isn't enough.

The Second Time Around (January 21-23) is a "cute" comedy, the likes of which we haven't seen for quite some time. Which is just as well. Debbie Reynolds is a female Jerry Lewis in this slapstick story of a husband-hunting widow in a Western town of the early 1900's.

Miss Reynolds begins as a ranch hand, takes up panning gold and ends up as sheriff of the town in as unlikely a series of situations as could ever be thought up. She is dragged through mud puddles, wrapped up by a round-up and drenched in a cold mountain stream looking for gold, but emerges just as fresh and pert and smiling as, say, Dinah Shore.

Andy Griffith delivers the top performance, however, as a shy ranch owner under the thumb of his mother. He doesn't get the girl, he doesn't save the town, but he does get what original laughs there are. Juliet Prowse, Frank Sinatra's

OF MITT AND BOOT

Frank Has Both. We set out across the tundra for Frank's Sport Shop the other day, bent on discovering the latest in ski apparel. We found that out all right, but we also discovered in the course of our expedition that Frank's (in the Shopping Center, you know) is beginning to carry a complete stock of riding equipment besides all the ski stuff.

At the moment, he has jodphur boots, riding boots, breeches and crops, which is a good stable beginning. We found boots in a conservative black or brown and pants in taupe or brown, everything scaled for men, women or children.

Eventually, as the orders get filled and the boxes unpacked, Frank will carry scarves, safety helmets fer people who are spurned by the horse, riding jeans and the like.

Now, about the skiing. The Henke boot from Switzerland is a magnificent investment in comfort and safety, and Frank speaks of it with reverence.

There are also after-ski boots like the leather one lined with fleece and treated to a crepe sole and a zipper closing ($9.95).

Insulated underwear for men, women and children, consists of a pair of foam rubber pants with laminated cotton mesh and bright red nylon on the outside. No breeze would dare! There are also quilted under-jackets with knit cuffs and collar to wear under a nylon wind-breaker.

The windbreakers hover around $11.95 and $19.95 for men and women, depending on linings, cut and various other details. A man's jacket with a red quilted lining comes in navy with a drawstring hood and waist. The model appears again in a child's style, so Daddy can look just like Junior.

Jackets for women are much the same, all designed in the parka style, some with fur-trimmed hoods.

Frank is particularly pleased with the children's snow-pants. These junior pants can be bought separately to wear with snowsuit jackets that are probably still useful, pants being somewhat more susceptible to attrition than jackets. These quilt-lining pants, fuller than the usual ski pants, are $8.95, up to size 14.

Regular ski pants for children up to 14 are $9.95 in orlon stretch, royal or black.

For women, there are the sleek stretch pants that you simply cannot be without on a ski slope (Just try going without them!). Frank has black or royal in nylon and rayon stretch for $19.95.

Ski accessories at Frank's begin with a man's cowhide mitten in black with fleece lining, $5.95. Other mitts are nylon with drawstring wrists and palms of "leather" and quilted nylon linings.

Goggles are for people who prefer them to the wool face-masks. Although maybe you can wear both. We must remember to ask

WHY GO SOUTH?

To Wear New Clothes. Packing the skiis in the attic, we dropped in at Mayme Mead's to see what the latest weather report was from Florida. We never did get the weather report, but we did find some raincoats, which may or may not be significant.

Hope It Rains

Two of the most opulent raincoats we've ever seen are now waiting for a rainy day on the racks at Mayme Mead, 188 Nassau. Both are dry-weather garments as well, one suitable for any cool spring day with a breeze, the other splendid for evening wear.

The evening coat is pure silk, water-repellent obviously, and lined with a flowered silk lining. It has wide, three-quarter sleeves with deep cuffs, a soft tie at the neck, slash pockets and self buttons. You may buy its rustling sophistication in turquoise, cherry with a cherry-lemon pink lining, black with a red lining, or brown.

The second coat is navy wool jersey with a band of red and white down the front, across the pockets and, in a wider version, around the collarless neckline. The taffeta lining is navy, and there is a matching beret: $110.

Lawrence of London makes these raincoats, so they have probably been pre-tested in a pea-soup fog.

Two of them we describe elsewhere. A third one we thought you'd like to consider is a wool jersey with a very wide short sleeve and a round collar with buttons down the front. It is more classic in de-

MUSIC
In Princeton

STERN WILL PLAY

In Princeton Concert. Isaac Stern will play the fourth concert in Series II of the Princeton University Concerts when he comes to McCarter this Thursday at 8:30.

The only first-ranking violinist to be trained exclusively in America, Mr Stern is one of his country's leading cultural ambassadors.

He was the first American artist to appear in the Soviet Union after World War II, in 1956, and he returned to the Soviet Union last spring, receiving unprecedented ovations even though he appeared during the summit conference crisis. It has been estimated that 20,000 were turned away from his final Moscow concert.

In Princeton, he will play the Handel Sonata in E Major, Opus 1, No. 15; Brahms' Sonata No. 3 in D Minor, Opus 108, the Bach Partita No. 2 in D Minor for unaccompanied violin and Samuel Dushkin's arrangement of Stravinsky's Divertimento from "Le Baiser de la Fee."

All seats have been sold, but

Isaac Stern

75 stage seats at $2.50 and 50 standing room tickets at $1.50 will be on sale at McCarter at 7:30 p.m.

TO PLAY THE LUTE

In McCarter Concert. Persuaded to do so by the McCarter management, Julian Bream will include music for the lute in the forthcoming recital which he originally planned for guitar alone.

The young British classic guitarist found, in a recent Town Hall recital, that the lute portion of his program was received with unexpected enthusiasm, although he had thought the instrument somewhat restricted in its appeal.

He will appear in McCarter this Sunday at 3. Tickets, at $2.90 and $1.90, are available at the McCarter box-office or may be reserved by calling WA 1-8700.

300 VOICES READY

For United Fund Festival. More than 300 voices will be heard, at one time or another, in the course of the United Fund Festival of Song to be held in McCarter Theatre Wednesday and Thursday, February 7 and 8.

Singing groups participating include the Westminster Choir, Columbus Boychoir, the Princeton High School Choir and the Nassoons. In addition, Herbert Hobler, the director, will present numbers from "Guys and Dolls" featuring Anne Sheldon, Stuart Duncan and Ashby Adams, John Simon, Ken Bordner.

Members of Triangle Club will offer their production number, "Mingo Junction" and several hits from by-gone Triangle shows. The Palmer Squares and the Opposite Sextette will also sing.

CLUB TO MEET

For Music. Members of the Princeton Music Club will gather next Wednesday at 8:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Robert Strunsky, 164 Hodge Road.

Performers will be Rachel Armstrong, Louise Strunsky, Barbara Hilbish, Kay Stroup, Helen Tas, Murray Lehman and Martha Norton. Hostesses, with Mrs. Strunsky, will be Martha Norton and Ruth Bent.

It's New To Us

sign than the navy jersey we've already mentioned. Colors are royal, red, natural and the lining is a leaf-rustling taffeta.

Under it you wear the sleeveless sheath of pale blue linen with the chartreuse piping down each side of the center front. There are two front bows, a wide neckline and no sleeves.

Almost all the Mayme Mead resort dresses have a U-cut boat neckline, by the way; it's almost universal.

A sea blue crepe has cap sleeves and belt, and little bows at the tops of the sleeves. The back on this demure dress is a startlingly deep "U."

A jade linen sheath, sleeveless, carries its own short, two-button jacket with short sleeves and a print lining that emerges again in the looped sash. The bodice is faced with the print, too, so that it shows from time to time at the neckline.

Gleaming, almost irridescent pink and purple flowers glow from the white background of a silk surah, cut simply with cap sleeve and notched U neck. A white orlon sweater has appliques of the pink and purple flowers.

Stripes good now or next summer, appear in steel blue on a white ground. They are a good half-inch wide, arranged in graduated squares on the big patch pockets. Here's another with boat neck, deep U back and no sleeves.

Tanner's golfer for this year has Siamese kittens in brown and turquoise playing with lime string on a white floor. The print has been used again in a sleeveless blouse and there are solid shorts in linen to pick up the colors in the kittens.

Another sleeveless Tanner blouse lines up rows of solemn royal and navy dachshunds in solid phalanxes against white, and a final Tanner print shows a flock of widely dispersed Easter chicks in pink or lime, pecking away at something or other.

BAG IN HAND

Shoe an Foot. They match, bags and shoes, at Nassau Shoe Tree on Palmer Square. We found a cruise-and-summer group consisting of some fine bags at $4.95 made in capacious sizes, and some slim flats, which are probably made in capacious size too, if that's your foot.

One bag is red Indianhead with a jute handle and a black "pigskin" gusset. Dimensions: 15 inches long, 16 inches high with a zip close.

The same style has been used for a striped bag in red, gold, orange and yellow with shaggy stripes against sand and a sand gusset and handle. The shoes to match this bag are either flats or wedgies, the former with a flat bow and a button, the latter with ties.

A square bag in pinks, blues and greens has shiny white plastic straps that go like suspenders across the fabric of the bag. The matching shoe here is a three-holed flat.

One flat in coral and natural is divided right around the middle of the shoe so that the upper is natural, the lower part near the sole, coral. Rope soles hold up a moccasin toe pump in black canvas, and a red canvas flat with a tie.

Meanwhile . . . . The Shoe Tree reminds you that winter is around every corner. Joyce's fleece-lined jodphur boot in oyster, brown or black will ward off at least some of the weather. A black gabardine dress boot will protect your best shoes from slush and the insulated child's boot (one sized for you, too), will come in out of the wet, get dried out with a cloth and go right out again into the snow, dry as can be.

WE DANES—AND YOU

DEMOCRACY

A Chapter proving conclusively that We are Democratic, though our manner of showing it may on occasions seem curious.

THE DANES are democratic. Indeed, some people have asserted that we are more democratic than others. But comparisons are out of place here.

The facts, so far as they concern the majority of visitors, are simple. Nobody looks down on a man who is a millionaire. We know that the taxation system will not allow him to go on being one for very long and anyway he is not happier than the rest of us. Similarly, it is accepted that a man can be just as good as his neighbor even if he happens to be a count or a prince or "un bourgeois de bourgeoisie bourgeoisante."

Naturally there are snobs in Denmark. So there are in the Philippines, the Isle of Man, Skye, and the Tyrol. But it is probably true to say that the Danes are more snobbish about success than about money, more about ability than about titles.

Certain class distinctions must be admitted, but nobody has yet discovered where to put the distinction. It is an indubitable fact that many a taxi-driver reads Huxley and Hemingway in the original while many a general manager finds it difficult to read a thriller in Danish. But thanks to an excellent school system, the universities and, not least, the Danish high schools, almost anybody who is mentally equipped for study can do so. The resulting high standard of education brings professors and ditchdiggers alike to a cultural level on which they can converse with ease. What is more, they do. Virtually the only difference between them seems to be that the ditchdigger earns more than the professor who consequently may feel himself at a slight practical disadvantage, though not quite inferior if he remembers that there are lots of ditchdiggers but not very many professors.

Many of our artists began as artisans; many of them end up that way.

Men and women have equal and common franchise, but they are equally good friends for all that.

Cary S. Kammler

The other day we learned something interesting about time keeping. It seems that prior to the 14th Century little was known about mechanical means for keeping time. Sun dials, however, were in use as far back as 200 B.C. The first mechanical clock in Europe of which we have any knowledge was one made in Wurtemberg by Henry De Vick for King Charles V of France, installed in Paris in 1360. It was motivated by a 500 lb. weight and was accurate to within about two hours a day. Can you imagine not knowing whether your clock was right or off as much as two hours? It seems that man's devices have always suited the times in which he lived, and all things have always had to progress slowly, step by step. Today most of us are displeased if we find our time piece off a minute or two, but that's life nowadays. For our part, we place efficiency and customer satisfaction way ahead of the time element, but we know how important time is to you . . . and you can always count on us to serve you with satisfaction in the shortest reasonable time. current finance, is also featured in color and widescreen. Comment: sticky-sweet slapstick.

THE GARDEN

The Mark (January 18-23) is one of the highlights of a thought-provoking crop of foreign films which have been making the rounds of American theatres. It stars Maria Schell and Stuart Whitman. The plot concerns a man's struggle against neurosis and prying people.

Released from prison, where he has been held for attempting to assault a young girl, the protagonist (Whitman) enters the life of a small English town in an office job obtained for him by the prison psychiatrist. Just as he seems to be conquering neurosis — enter, prying people.

The film bears similarities to "The Scarlet Letter," with the crucial difference that the protagonist of this story never sins. He only attempts and fails, and then he attempts, helped by the healing love of a good and innocent woman, to achieve a new adjustment to life.

Lucia di Lamermoor (January 24) is the second in the Grand Opera Series at The Garden. Donizetti's opera stars Nelly Corradi, Afro Poli and Mario Filippeschi. Written early in the 19th century, the opera is really one of the last examples of the 18th century Italian opera which featured the singers' voices as opposed to the orchestra.

not pardoned. It is true, for example, that Miss Sutherland's program contained some trash. But he goes considerably beyond rudeness when he seems to suggest that Mr. Frager should play nothing but trash, as it is in this area that his gifts lie. This is a gratuitous slap in the face to an artist who has won the Leventritt and Queen Elizabeth of Belgium awards.

These awards are irrelevant to Monday's concert; there, the only question is, was it a dreadful concert, as your critic said, or was it a rare and beautiful musical experience? Among a group of a dozen or so professional musicians and scholars who were discussing the concert afterwards, there was an unusual consensus, without reservation or dissent, that we had been privileged to hear a most exciting young pianist, whose flawless technique was matched by the depth of his musical understanding. The evidence of my own non-professional ears supports this position enthusiastically.

The critic has the duty to say what he believes; and every critic has an off night when he would be better off in bed, or anywhere but the concert hall. But, thinking back to his other reviews, excepting that of Serkin, it seems to me that your critic is suffering an extended attack of piddling perfectionism, complicated by carping trillomania; if Mr. Frager had not begun his trills on the upper note, I fear your critic would not have survived the evening.

If this is unfair or wounding, consider the possible impact of such a review on the career of a rising young artist. In the case of Mr. Frager, he is probably so sure of his talent, in a modest way, that he can laugh it off even without having to go to his trophy case to reassure himself that he really did win all those medals.

I have written this as an outraged music-lover; it would be less than candid in me not to admit that I am pained in a particular way, as Chairman of the Concerts Committee, by the tenor of your reviews over the past few years. Your Music in Princeton column sometimes seems to be a short course in critical Karate.

It is fortunate that the Princeton audience is musically literate; it members trust their own ears rather than those of critics who assure them that they did not hear what they thought they heard. The proof of this proposition is that the audience continues to come. If they took your critic seriously, they would think that the odds against any concert's being a valuable musical experience were so long that they would stay home with their record collections rather than risking the chancy confrontation with live music.

Ultimately the records would wear out, and by then there might be no more live musicians to make more records; but that is no cause for alarm, for at that point each family will be able to afford its own electronic synthesizer. If the performing artist is a noble but lumbering mammoth doomed to extinction anyway, it is perhaps kind in our critics to shorten his agony.

When this has occurred, the critic can relax also into extinction, as he will have no functions left. But will his fossil remains reveal the majesty of the mammoth or the awesomeness of the auk?

DAVID H. BLAIR, JR.

Editor's Note: Mr. Hamilton has made the following reply to the comments on his reviews:

The general charge here seems to be that recent music reviews have been unduly negative. Perhaps a reference to the reports on Rudolf Serkin's playing, Elliot Carter's Second String Quartet, Gerard Souzay's singing of Debussy and Ravel, and the Princeton Symphony's performance of Haydn's "Seasons" will demonstrate to the critic's critics—and to the general reader—that much valuable musical experience has been found at this season's concerts, and that it has been highly praised.

It is, however, asking a great deal of a reviewer that he should also praise that which he finds unsatisfactory, and that, it seems, is what he is being asked to do in the case of last Monday's concert.

In addition, there is a charge of rudeness. Were the critic's "jugular instinct" as well developed as Mr. Blair thinks it is, the "suggestion that Mr. Frager should play nothing but trash" which Mr. Blair finds between the lines would surely have been made explicitly. Although the reviewer could not help feeling that the pianist's best playing was in the music of least enduring value, he did not make such an explicit statement, and hoped that his closing paragraph would suggest that, for some unknown reason, the pianist did not, perhaps, do himself full justice in this concert before the encores. It all depends on which lines you read between.

For reasons of space, other points cannot be answered here; however, the Lucely-made imputation that this critic prefers electronic to live performances is, it should be observed, a fabrication of whole cloth, based on nothing he has ever written.

CORRECTION

The Township Board of Education has corrected the identification made earlier this month of its former Community Park School construction inspector. The inspector was Walter P. Golden, not William Golden.

Warm Weather Warning

Although the rain
Was not so nice,
At least, it left us
With our ice;
But if the next rain
Makes it break —
Brother, you stay off
That lake!

— O. THAW

Rising temperature — from a low of 8 Friday to 47 Sunday and 57 Monday —made a careful check on ice conditions imperative before using. Incidentally, Sunday's mild weather produced a real contrast in recreational activities: while Carnegie was crowded with skaters enjoying near-perfect ice, others turned to tennis and golf as if it were a lovely spring day.

Warmer than usual for the next few days, the Man reports. Rain is a possibility by Friday.

mitteeman Thomas P. Cook (anti-total-restraint) cited provisions prohibiting dogs from school property, elimination of the present complaining-neighbor requirement, hiring of a dog officer, picking up unlicensed dogs, and raising the license fee to $3.

Joseph Nini, administrator, reminded Township residents that dog licenses must be purchased by January 31.

Committee tabled the Zoning Board's recommendation to allow a car-wash on Route 206 opposite Nassau Oil until it can determine the steps necessary to obtain technical information on water supply and sewage disposal. Several neighbors of the proposed car-wash appeared to protest approval.

Committee also granted to Dorsett Princeton Research, Alexander Street, permission to expand to 50 employees (providing 33 parking spaces) and to make prototype microwave antennas. An ordinance was introduced prohibiting parking on the south side of Birch Avenue, the north side of Valley, the north of Franklin and the south of Franklin to within 100 feet of the Snowden intersection. Public hearing: Monday, February 5, 8 p.m.

THEATRE SERIES SET

By Adult School. "The Experience of the Theatre," a lecture series in the Princeton Adult School curriculum, will be conducted in conjunction with the spring program at McCarter Theatre.

"Laboratory work" will consist of attendance at McCarter productions and a 25 percent ticket discount will be available to those who attend the lecture series. (The complete curriculum is published on pages 16 and 17.)

Alan Downer of the University, will speak on the theatre as a popular experience in medieval times and on the origins of the theatrical experience. Edward Hubler will cover the Elizabethan theatre and Edward Sullivan the experience of the theatre in France, particularly Moliere.

The remaining six lectures will be given by members of the McCarter resident staff.

One Ad: 209 Replies from 26 Communities

The ad read:

WANTED: SOMEONE TO ADDRESS 1000 envelopes per week. 2c per envelope. Can be done at home. Please reply in own handwriting to Box Z-45, Town Topics.

In the first six days following its publication last week, the advertisement drew 209 answers. While many readers in the past have reported that "I could have sold what I advertised many times over," and "the telephone never stopped ringing," the number of replies to Box Z-45 is a record for TOWN TOPICS' 15 years of publication.

The advertiser in this instance was The First Princeton Corporation, 195 Nassau Street, which has asked TOWN TOPICS to express it appreciation to all those who replied. Aware that more than 200 people who had taken the trouble to answer the ad would be disappointed, one member of the firm said a bit sadly, "We only wanted one!"

As the volume of TOWN TOPICS advertising has grown through the years, inquiries have periodically been made as to why the ads are not grouped together by subject matter—in true classified fashion. Box Z-45—an advertisement that happened to appear well toward the bottom of a page near others for rentals, for a jewelry store, for lost eyeglasses—is an adequate answer.

The replies bore these postmarks from three states: Princeton, Lawrenceville, Hopewell, Kingston, Rocky Hill, Monmouth Junction, Skillman, Blawenburg, Trenton, Cranbury, Hightstown, Bordentown, Franklin Park, Princeton Junction, Jamesburg, Penns Neck, Morrisville, New Hope, Linden, Bound Brook, Plainfield, Titusville, Allentown, Bryn Mawr, New York and Weehawken.

INSTRUCTOR BURNED

In Lab Mishap. Manfred Pyka, 29, 129 Bayard Lane, is in fair condition in Princeton Hospital following a laboratory accident last Thursday. Mr. Pyka is an instructor in the physics department of the University.

He was admitted to the hospital with burns of the face, eyes, mouth and trachea and first and second degree burns of the neck and chest. A container of lithium-hydride overflowed onto Mr. Pyka, causing the burns.

SMITH AUCTION SET

For January 27. The 13th annual auction sponsored by the Smith College Club of Princeton will be held Saturday, January 27, from 10 to 4 in the gymnasium of Miss Fine's School, Nassau Street and Bayard Lane.

Proceeds from the auction provide scholarships to Smith College for girls from this area. Winner of last year's scholarship award was Miss Joyce B. Washburn of Pennington, now a sophomore at Smith. In the 12 years since the auction was first organized, a total of $21,000 has been raised for scholarships.

Mrs. C. Welles Fendrich, Jr., is chairman of this year's auction, with Mrs. John F. Bales as assistant chairman and head of the telephone committee. Mrs. Thomas C. Jamieson, Jr., is in charge of the transportation committee which will pick up donations and bring them to the gym on Friday, January 26.

Other committee heads are: Mrs. A. Rommel Ambrose, luncheon; Mrs. George L. Berry, small gifts; Mrs. Klaus Florey, hostesses; Mrs. Bernard Goldstein, baked goods; Mrs. Lawrence L. Hlavacek, donations from stores; Mrs. Clifford L. Lamar, Jr., display; Mrs. Frederick E. Seiler, auctioneer's helpers, and Mrs. Lucius Wilmerding, 3rd, posters.

FIVE MOTORISTS FINED

In Traffic Court. Four Princeton motorists were fined $15 each Monday and a fifth, $12, by Borough Magistrate Theodore T. Tams, Jr.

Those fined $15 were Mrs. Elizabeth A. Sheriff, 28, 217-B Marshall Street, no valid driver's license; Niels E. Bach, 18, 198 Ewing Street, careless driving; Martinus H. Buiting, 27, 118 Leigh Avenue, speeding; and Robert P. Cifelli, 23, 125 Linden Lane, late inspection. The $12 fine was levied against Harvey Rothberg, Jr., 33, of 44 Robert Road, red light. All except Mr. Rothberg pleaded guilty.

TOWNSHIP TOURED

In Conservation Survey. Members of the Township Open Space Committee and the Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed Association made a tour of the Township Saturday to survey areas for a program of conservation of open space.

The results of the survey will be used in preparing a report to Township Committee in the spring. It is expected that the conservation program will cover land for parks and playgrounds, development rights and scenic easements. Malcolm Crooks, executive director of the Watershed Association, and James Sayen, chairman of the Open Space Committee, directed the survey.

Representing the Open Space Committee on the tour were Gerald Breese, Mrs. John V. A. Fine, Thomas P. Cook, Mrs. Stanley Smoyer, William M. Sloane, Lyle Fitch, Simon Marcson and Mrs. Gordon Knox. Mrs. Harold Hart, David H. McAlpin, Russell Butler, Jr., and Carl Breuer, trustees of the Watershed Association, joined the survey.

AS WE SEE IT!

By John Conole

Just about everyone has fire insurance in one form or another on his home. It's the sound and reasonable thing to do, there is no doubt. The trouble is, all too many of us do not protect our homes against the greatest hazard of all—death.

If we stop and think about it, we are faced with one important hard-hitting fact. That is the chance of our not living to see the mortgage burnt is six or more times greater than the house being destroyed by fire. What can be done about it?

The simple facts are these. For a very reasonable cost, a man who loves his family can protect those dear to him from one of the most tragic occurences of our modern civilization. He can leave, whatever else he may have, the priceless legacy of a home.

AS WE SEE IT, too many widows and children are forced to leave the one thing most important to them after the death of the breadwinner. The peace and happiness and security of that one link left with happy family times are gone forever. A reduced standard of living is almost certain to follow.

Why don't you think about it? Certainly your wife has, often. Think about it and then let us help you find the means to peace of mind. MERCER-PRINCETON REALTY COMPANY, INC., 21 Chambers Street, WA 1-7282.

ASSOCIATION REPORTS

On Savings, Loans. Assets amounting to $10,213,796 were reported this week by the Princeton Savings and Loan Association. The year-end report points out that the figure is an 11 percent increase over the previous year.

Net savings increased by 13 percent to $9,573,033. Dividends exceeded $317,000, compared with $273,500 in 1960. There were more than 3,500 savings account holders, compared to 3,277 in 1960.

The Association's mortgage portfolio is now $8,373,348, representing 660 loans on residential properties in Princeton and environs.

In making the annual report, B. Franklin Bunn, president of Princeton Savings and Loan, predicted a continuing high level of capital expenditures by business and industry and a continuing high level of economy for the nation.

ASSETS INCREASE

At Nassau Savings. In its annual report, Nassau Savings and Loan Association reports a record 24 percent gain in assets to $5,500,000.

Net savings gains of $841,000 bring total savings capital to a record high of $5,001,244. The 2,855 customers of the Association received $162,400 in dividends at 3¾ percent. Last year's report registered 2,300 accounts with Nassau.

Mortgage lending volume, chiefly loans made to buy homes in Princeton, increased to $4,923,000 from the 1960 figure of $3,929,847.

YOU, ME AND CREDIT

Discussion Planned. Richard Ehlers, credit sales administrator for Bambergers, will speak to the Princeton Credit Grantors Association at a noon luncheon meeting next Wednesday at the Nassau Inn.

"You and Me and the Credit Bureau" is the topic of Mr Ehlers' talk. The speaker is president of the Garden State Credit Bureau and a director in the credit management division of the National Retail Merchants Association.

Those wishing to attend should call the Chamber of Commerce, WA 1-7676.

VICE-PRESIDENT NAMED

For Mettler. F. P. Benson, Jr., 33 Willow Road, Lawrenceville, has been elected vice-president for manufacturing of Mettler Instrument Corporation. Mettler manufactures high precision weighing equipment.

Mr Benson joined Mettler in 1959 as plant manager of the Hightstown facilities, having served previously as a management consultant with McKinsey & Co., New York.

NEW PARTNER NAMED

By Accounting Firm. A. R. Braveman and Company, Accountants and Auditors, 32 Nassau Street, have announced the admission of Ellis M. Hoch, C.P.A. to membership in the firm. The firm will be known as Braveman, Freedman and Hoch.

SUBSIDIARY FOR HAMNER

To Be Named "Molechem." Lloyd H. Hamner, President of Hamner Electronics, Inc., has announced the formation of a subsidiary corporation named Molechem, Inc., which will work in affiliation with Hamner Electronics, Inc., while its operations and products will remain separate. The new company's sales will be handled by Hamner's sales and engineering representatives.

John J. Baum, General Manager and Executive Vice-President of Hamner, will direct Molechem, Inc. The new firm will be engaged in research, development and manufacturing in the general fields of molecular electronics, solid state devices and related activities.

Melvin J. Leach has been appointed Plant Manager for Hamner Electronics, and he will supervise the manufacture and production of nuclear research instruments and systems at the company's newly completed Nuclear Instrument Center near Princeton. Mr. Leach, formerly with Elion Instruments, Inc. of Bristol, Pa., has had many years of experience in production management in the electronics industry.

SHOULD THE MILITARY BE MUZZLED? Yes, but only in the areas of politics and military information is the opinion of William Bauer. Others feel there should be no restrictions whatsoever on our privilege of free speech. (Staff Photo.)

Question of the Week

Question: Do you approve of the Pentagon pre-censoring speeches made by our military leaders?

Where asked: Around town.

Richard D. Challener, 45 Knoll Drive, Professor of History, Princeton University: I would agree it is necessary for civilian officials to keep a control over the statements of the military. I think (1) that civil supremacy is a deeply-ingrained and necessary part of the American Constitution; (2) ever since the war, the responsibilities of the government have become so great and so complex that the problem of a military man speaking out of turn can be appalling; (3) I feel that there is a problem posed by these extreme right wing groups and that there may have been an occasional tie-in between them and some military leaders.

Mrs. Mildred Goldberger, 125 Fitz-Randolph Road, freelance editor: Insofar as the branches of the U. S. armed forces are professional institutions, to that extent the directors of these institutions have to take responsibility for what is said by members of those institutions. Thus the Secretary of the Navy, the Secretary of the Army and so forth can be held responsible for the opinions that the admirals and the generals express. To that extent they have to excercise, not censorship, perhaps, but discretion on the utterances of these professional people at the Pentagon so that it is quite clear that they are speaking as citizens and not as a representative of the government. General Walker certainly wasn't expressing the viewpoint of the Army, but he had every right as a private citizen to espouse any cause he cared to. The difficulty is it has to be made clear he is talking not as an Army spokesman but as a private citizen.

Charles Clement, 1 Royal Oak Road, Lawrence Township, instructor, Princeton University: Yes. Actually I'm from Britain but I always felt some bad impressions were made on Western Europe by the comments of your military leaders. They appeared, at times, to contradict some of the policies of their government. We have the same problem with Lord Montgomery in England.

Mrs. William Dix, 94 McCosh Circle, housewife: I think if you work for the government you have some responsibility of accepting the policies of the government. I usually don't believe in censooring public opinion but I do think when you are in a position such as a military leader you have to be willing to accept some forms of censorship.

N. Beverley Tucker, Lockhart Hall, University senior: Yes, because of the military chain of command and because opinions expressed by military people carry more weight than they perhaps should.

Fred Sterzer, Province Line Road, physicist: Yes. I think this should apply not only to the military but to all people in the government. If they are speaking of an official of the government, they should represent the views of the administration. It would be chaotic if officials were to express their private views.

Mrs. G. Arnold Cronk, Evergreen Circle, housewife: Because we are a democracy, I think comments from our military leaders should be heard in the sense they are experts and people should be aware of their views. But I suppose we have to draw the line somewhere if it involves our security. We'll have to use all the wisdom we can in deciding how far they should be allowed to go.

William Jones, Princeton Theological Seminary, student: Yes, because military leaders are predominantly military men; their job is carrying out orders successfully. The Pentagon is in charge of the formation of opinion in the light of information they have received covering the world situation. Military leaders couldn't possibly have acess to all the information the Central Intelligence Agency has.

William Bauer, Goat Hill Road, Lambertville, sales manager, Chysler-Lancer for Turney Motors: I would approve only to the extent that it restrains them from making political comments that would run counter to the present domestic and foreign policies of the government and from saying anything that would endanger the interests and the safety of our country.

Mrs. Mildred O'Kane, 27 Linden Lane, homemaker: No, I don't. I think our military men should have a right to say anything they want. It seems to me they are in a position to know. Why should they not be allowed to say what they think is right?

Leon Schiffer, Bristol, Pa. proprietor of linoleum store: Only as long as it prevents them from giving away any secrets vital to our defense. I think any man, military or not, has a right to voice his opinions in a free state such as ours.

David Kass, 258 Nassau Street, owner of Wash-O-Mat: Yes, I do, because sometimes, unthinkingly, they might say something that would jeopardize our position and cause severe consequences.

Mrs. Thomas Wilson, Rocky Hill, housewife: This is a country of free speech and free press so I would say no. I think the people of this country should know what is going on. That's what America is based on.

Business Card Magic

Nonsense! There's no such thing as business card magic. Business cards are designed to serve hard-headed, realistic purposes—namely, to be distinctively impressive, to enhance one's measure of prestige, and to present with forceful clarity the salient facts concerning one's business or profession.

Our simulated engraved (raised lettering) business cards serve these purposes admirably at very modest cost. Such purposful serving might well be described as business card magic.

Obituaries

The Rev. Dr. George Mair, 76, of 412 Franklin Avenue, died January 15 in Princeton Hospital after an illness of several weeks. For the past eight years, he had served as minister of visitation of The First Presbyterian Church.

Dr Mair had been pastor of the Redford Park Presbyterian Avenue Church in the Bronx, N. Y., for 34 years before coming to Princeton. He was moderator of the Presbytery of New York in 1946 and again in 1947.

Born in Aberdeen, Scotland, Dr Mair came to the United States in 1907. He attended Wesleyan University, transferred to Harvard and was graduated there in 1916.

Several months as an Army chaplain in World War I preceded his graduation from Union Theological Seminary. Later in life, he earned a master of arts degree from Columbia and received an honorary doctor of divinity degree from Park College.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Evelyn Thurber Mair, two sons, George F., associate professor of economics at Smith College, and the Rev. David T., minister of the Highland Presbyterian Church, Maryville, Tenn.; two brothers, Alexander and Aneas Anderson, both of Glasgow, Scotland, and three grandchildren.

A memorial service will be held Saturday at 3 in the First Presbyterian Church, with the Rev. Elmer G. Homrighausen of Princeton Theological Seminary officiating. Private interment, under the direction of the Mather Funeral Home, will be in Ewing Churchyard Cemetery. It is requested no flowers be sent.

Victor F. Schoepperle, 72, of 27 Armour Road, died January 12 at his home. A former vice-president of the National City Bank, New York City, he was born in Oil City, Pa. He attended Harvard University and graduated from Haverford College in 1911 where he was elected to Phi Beta Kappa.

In the same year he joined the brokerage firm of N. W. Halsey and Company. He later was named vice-president of the National City Company, and became vice-president of the National City Bank in 1934. Mr. Schoepperle moved to Princeton from Short Hills upon his retirement in 1950.

He was a past president of the Bond Club of New York and a trustee of the Peoples' Symphony of New York. From 1941 to 1945, he was treasurer and trustee of Bennington College, and during 1947 and 1948, he served as a delegate to the International Trade Organization in Cuba.

His wife, the former Edith Payne, died in 1956. Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Richard W. Colman Jr. of Princeton, and Mrs. Thomas Paxson of Southampton, Pa.; a son, John V. of White Plains, N. Y.; a brother, Richard, of Hamburg, N. Y.; and five grandchildren.

A memorial service after the manner of the Society of Friends was held at his home. The Kimble Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Dr. Elmer Adler, 77, curator of Princeton University's Graphic Arts Collection until 1955, died January 11 in San Juan, Puerto Rico. He had suffered a heart attack nine days earlier.

Dr. Adler resigned from his position here six years ago to become director of La Casa Del Libro, a government financed book museum housing one of this hemisphere's finest collections of Spanish-language typographical art. Prior to that, he had been at Princeton for 15 years, coming here in 1940 with the rank of assistant professor to take charge of Graphic Arts and soon earning the warm-hearted designation of "Princeton's Prince of Prints."

Born in Rochester, N.Y., Dr. Adler began work as a grocery errand boy and without benefit of college degree, became so well versed in his field that he served in an advisory capacity to The New York Times and other leading publications. A decade after he had come to Princeton, he was still director of 'The Times' Museum History of the Recorded Word.

A yellow clapboard building at 36 University Place (since demolished to make way for the University Store) was Dr. Adler's headquarters while in Princeton. It was there that his 4,000 prints and 8,000 volumes were available for seminars, exhibits and study by bibliophiles, collectors and those merely curious.

On November 3, 1949, Dr. Adler was TOWN TOPICS' "Man of the Week" for "creating in a university center unique opportunities for study; for stressing that knowledge of the past is only valid insofar as it contributes to the present and future; for dispensing an appealing blend of erudition and geniality."

Frederick W. Toussaint, 95, a cabinet maker in Princeton for many years, died January 12 in Point Pleasant. He had been living there with his daughter, Mrs. Helen Ehrman.

Mr. Toussaint was in the antique business, in addition to his trade as a cabinet maker. He had retired in 1946.

His survivors include two other daughters, Mrs. Virginia Van Kirk and Mrs. Elizabeth Campbell, both of Princeton Junction; three sons, Edwin, also of Princeton Junction, William of Hamilton Square and Norman of Fort Lauderdale, Fla.; 12 grandchildren and a great-grandchild. The funeral in Point Pleasant was followed by burial here in St. Paul's Cemetery.

Mrs. Elizabeth Clarkson Cray, 84, of Little Rocky Hill, died January 11.

Born in Hopewell, she was the wife of James A. Cray, and is also survived by three daughters: Mrs. Myrtle McVeigh of North Brunswick; Mrs. Mamie Schumaker of Metuchen; and Mrs. Amy Rule of Nixon; ten grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

The service was held at a Hopewell Funeral Home, with the Rev. John H. Ginter, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Hopewell, officiating. Burial was in Stoutsburg Cemetery.

Mrs. Della L. Salzman of 25 Chestnut Street died January 13. Born in Princeton, she was the wife of Charles Salzman, Jr.

Mrs. Salzman was a member of Star of Princeton Lodge 43.

Order of the Shepherds of Bethlehem; Daughters of Liberty in Hightstown and Victory Chapter 96, Order of the Eastern Star, Trenton.

A brother, Joseph Cruser of Princeton, also survives. The service at The Mather Funeral Home was followed by burial in Princeton Cemetery.

Mrs. Marie F. Hogarty, 57, of 15 Chestnut Street, died January 14 in Princeton Hospital after a brief illness.

Born in Johnstown, Pa., she had lived here for the past 35 years. Mrs. Hogarty was a past grand regent of Court Moran 378, Catholic Daughters of America, and a past president of the St. Paul's School Parent-Teacher Association.

She is survived by her husband, James R. Hogarty; a daughter, Miss Elizabeth Hogarty of Princeton; three sons, William of Pearl City, Hawaii; Richard of Cranbury; and Stephen, a senior at Notre Dame University; a brother, the Rev. Father Stephen Piscurich of St. Simon Stock Parish, Bronx, N. Y.; a sister, Sister Mary Mercedes of St. Ann's Home, Columbia, Pa.; and five grandchildren.

Solemn requiem high mass at St. Paul's Church was followed by burial in St. Paul's Cemetery. Arrangements were under direction of the Kimble Funeral Home.

Henry G. Schwarz, 29, of Route 27, Little Rocky Hill, died suddenly January 9 in Princeton Hospital. The son of Mrs. Reinhilda Gibson Schwarz, and the late Henry Schwarz, he was born in Princeton, and lived in this area all his life.

He owned and operated Schwarz Brothers Construction Company, and was a member and assistant chief of the Little Rocky Hill Fire Company. He was a member of Palestine Lodge No. 111, F&AM, of New Brunswick.

In addition to his mother, he is survived by a brother, William, and a sister, Mrs. John Ragany, both of Little Rocky Hill. The Rev. Clarence Brixey officiated at the service held at the Kimble Funeral Home. Interment was in Lutheran Cemetery, Middle Village, L. I.

Samuel C. Bastedo, 71, of 113 Rogers Avenue, Hightstown, died January 12 in Princeton Hospital. A native of Dutch Neck, Mr. Bastedo had retired in 1959 after 37 years as a laundry worker at the Peddie School.

EXAM BREAK AT HAND

As Tigers Take Stock. Most Princeton athletic teams paused for the term-end examinations with records which range from "extremely solid" to "satisfactory, but improvement essential." In the former category were swimming and squash; basketball and hockey were grouped together in the latter.

Triumphs over perennially strong Navy teams fell in pleasant fashion to Bob Clotworthy's swimmers and John Conroy's squash players. The 7-2 triumph which the squash team achieved broke a string of 27 straight victories recorded in the sport by the midshipmen.

Fortunately for the swimming team, it had its decision over Navy wrapped up before the final 400-yard freestyle relay. Rick Williams, swimming the anchor leg, finished first but a teammate jumped into the pool to congratulate him, thereby breaking a new rule which prohibits a member of one team from going into the water before opposing swimmers have finished.

The event was forfeited, but Princeton nonetheless won, 49 to 46, for its first triumph over Navy in the sport in six years. Highlight of the meet were a scintillating 2:05.2 in the 220-yard freestyle by sophomore Jed Graef and a fine 2:03.8 in the 200-yard backstroke credited to Captain Tom Welch. Both times are Princeton records.

COMEBACKS ACHIEVED

In Hockey and Basketball. A fine overtime victory at Cornell in hockey and a runaway triumph over Brown in basketball kept Princeton teams in contention as they halted activity for examinations. In the skaters' case, the runner-up spot is the highest aim they can logically have in a league completely dominated by Harvard.

There is little to choose among the other five teams in the Ivy Hockey League, with Cornell, Dartmouth, Princeton and Yale all capable of earning runner-up honors. For example, Dartmouth has beaten Yale, lost to Cornell; the Ithacans have split with Yale and lost to Princeton, which in turn was upset by Brown.

At Ithaca, standout play by Bill Hill in the goal and Johnny Cook on attack made the difference in the 4-3 contest. Cook got the Tigers' first two goals and set up Jim Hyland for a third, the latter coming with 31 seconds left to earn a 3-all deadlock.

In the overtime period, Dave Hersey backhanded a shot into the net at 1:37 on a pass from Pony Fraker. Hill contributed 31 saves, a number of them spectacular. Cook played wing on the first line, occasionally centered the third and also saw action on defense.

Quintet Splits. Memories of a disappointing performance against Yale were partially erased last weekend by the basketball team's ability to rebound against Brown. Had the Tigers not come back with an 82-59 victory at Providence after losing, 83-61, at New Haven, they would have been out of the Ivy race before the mid-way point was reached.

As it is, they are no better than 1-2 but have lost two road games to opponents generally conceded to be the best balanced in the league. Presuming ability to win against all comers at home, and to defeat such routine opposition as Columbia, Dartmouth and Harvard on the road, they still have a good shot at winning a third straight title.

Little went right for the Tigers at New Haven, where they fell behind early, trailed 34-23 at the half and were 15 to 20 points down throughout most of the final period. Jack Whitehouse and Al Kaemmerlen fouled out, Pete Campbell was limited to 13 points and Yale's sophomore-dominated quintet placed five men in double figures.

Life was much more pleasant at Providence, where a fast-break was introduced by Jake McCandless with welcome results. Campbell raised his output to 23; the other four starters all hit double figures and a steady second-half surge broke the game open after the Tigers had taken a 42-37 half-time lead.

Three big hurdles will face the Tigers when they resume action: January 27, Penn, here; Feb. 3, Yale, here; Feb. 9, Cornell, away. If they can take two of these three, they will have a shot at an 11-3 finish and that should be good enough for at least a share of first place by the time the season ends early in March.

PHS WINS 6TH STRAIGHT

To Pace Group 3 Schools. Danny Brown and George Tucker led Princeton High School to a convincing 69-57 victory over invading South River Friday afternoon to remove any lingering doubts over whether or not PHS will be a major contender for Group III honors this season. It was Princeton High's sixth consecutive victory and seventh in eight games.

For South River, which had beaten the Little Tigers by 38 points last year, it was only the second defeat in seven outings. Coach John Fitzpatrick's Rams will have a chance to redeem themselves and PHS, the opportunity to prove it was no mistake, Friday evening when the two schools will battle each other again. The game will be played at South River High's new gymnasium starting at 7.

DANNY DOING THE TWIST: That's what it seems Princeton High's Danny Brown is doing in the South River game Friday at the PHS gymnasium. At left, Danny is doing a more conventional step, outjumping tall South River players to add two more points to his total of 26 which helped defeat the Rams, 69-57. (Staff Photos.)

The Little Tigers will return home Tuesday when they oppose Somerville High, a Group IV school. The game will start at 3:30.

South River was the first opponent to score more than 50 points against the Blue and White this season, but it wasn't enough as the home team outran the Rams, particularly in the second quarter when it outscored South River, 22 to 13, to take a comfortable 38-24 halftime margin. Outstanding in the first half was George Tucker, leading scorer for PHS. George combined layups and one-handed push shots from the outside to score 16 of his 18 points in the first 16 minutes of play.

South River came back in the second half and outscored PHS by two points. But Danny Brown took up the slack in fine fashion, contributing 18 points in the final two periods to protect the Little Tigers' margin. His 26 points were high for both teams. "Danny," said PHS coach Tony Borzok, "always was in the right position at the right time. And he used his quick hands to good advantage. It was a good game to get."

HUN LOSES PAIR

Opposes Moorestown Friday. The Hun School basketball team suffered its second and third defeats in four games last week as it lost decisions to Germantown and Admiral Farragut. The scores were 71-49 and 54-34.

The Red and Black will meet Moorestown away Friday before taking a week off for mid-term exams. The contest will be a Penn-Jersey Conference game.

The reason for the easy Farragut victory over Hun was not hard to find: the future admirals were twice as accurate in their shooting, sinking 46 percent of their shots while the home team was connecting for a poor 23 percent.

Against Germantown, Hun fell victim to a well-oiled fast break in the opening minutes. "They had a 12-1 lead before we knew what happened," said Coach Dan Barren. The score at the end of the half was 35-15. The shooting of Hun's Gary Grover and Jim Byer, who combined for 27 points, enabled the losers to match Germantown basket for basket in the second half.

LARRIES AT HOME

In Two Sports. Lawrenceville's basketball and hockey teams will play home games on Saturday afternoon. The basketball team will face St. Benedict's of Newark at 2:30, and the hockey team will take on Woonsocket High School at 3.

The basketball team will be seeking to break a three-game losing streak. Peddie School defeated the Red and Black team last Wednesday, 65-52, and the Larries bowed to Bordentown Military Academy, 76-47, last Saturday. The team's record is now 2-4.

The hockey team lost two games last weekend, bowing to Burrillville (R. I.) High School, 7-2, on Saturday and losing to Hope High School, 10-2, on Friday. The team's record is now 2-5.

SQUASH TOURNEY SET

At Pretty Brook Club. Women from many parts of the eastern United States are expected to compete in the New Jersey Women's Squash Racquets Championship which will be held Thursday through Saturday at the Pretty Brook Tennis Club, Pretty Brook Road.

Mrs. John Claghorn, Mrs. Sanders Maxwell and Mrs. Hallett Johnson, Jr., are chairmen for the tournament. More than 20 members of the Princeton Women's Squash Racquets Association have made plans to compete.

First-round matches will be played on Thursday, beginning at 10 a.m. The quarter finals will begin at 10 Friday.

The semi-finals will begin Saturday morning at 10:30, and the championship match will be at 2:30. The consolation final will be at 3 on Saturday.

BOWLING NOTES

Lawrenceville On Top. Lawrenceville (10) moved one game ahead of Belle Mead and Princeton Number 1 in the Tri-County Fireman's League to highlight Princeton bowling action last week. Five other teams were tied for fourth with six points each. Walker Gordon and Edwards Engraving swept opening series to move in front of the "B" League, while five "A" loop teams each won two games, as both leagues began second-half action.

The Crescents continued to pace the Industrial loop with 69 points, four-and-a-half games ahead of Tiger Garage and First National Bank, tied at 60 each. Para Lab Supply was fourth with 54 points. And COB (66) held a two-game margin over Physics and ROTC Blue in the Faculty loop, with PPL (56) in the fourth spot.

Both women's leagues began second-half action last week, with three teams undefeated in each. Conover Motors, Craft Cleaners and Swift's Diner paced the Women's loop, while Nassau Service, Cifelli Electric and Gale Cleaners were on top in the Women's Industrial circuit. Doris Fasanella rolled the top game of 199 in the former league, followed by Linda Hafenmaier, 187, and Lois Cooper, 183. High scores in the Industrial loop included Donna Pendyke, 189; Janice Cifelli, 185, and Lillian Burrough, 180.

Carmine Panicaro posted the top men's score of the week, with 232 in the Fireman's loop. Other notable games included Ralph Kleiber, 218; Bucky Cupples, 213; Frank Stotko, 210; George Kirby, 209, Vince Sassman, 206; Joe Salek, 203-206; Jack Nicholson, 204, Jack Stout, 203; and Joe Pfister, 202, in the Fireman's circuit; and Bob Reed, 231, Bill Whatley, 215; Dave Burrough, 210; Bill Dumble, 204; Al Hibbard, 203; and Fred Goeke, Russ Watson and Ken. Luck, 201 each, in the "A" League.

Also, Frank Delneso, 225-208; Howard McWhorter, 223-206 and 616; Joe Baldino, 216; Al Hibbard, 215; Nick Rossi, 211; Jake Bartolino, 209; Tom Friel, 206-203; Mike Pinelli, 204, Tony Tamasi, 202-200; Bill Leffell, Bill Dumble and Harry Kahny, 201 each; and Fred Procaccini, 200, in the "B" loop; John Heller, 221, and Ed Grant, 204, in the Faculty League; and Milton Shinn, 223, and Dave Compton, 205-201, in the Industrial loop.

LEAGUE TIGHTENS

As Astro Defeats Labs. RCA Labs lost for the first time as RCA Astro defeated them, 29-25, in the YMCA Research and Industrial Basketball League. The loss broke a 16-game Lab winning streak that carried over from last season.

Still leading the League with a 4-1 record, the Labmen were handicapped by the absence of their leading scorer.

News Of The CHURCHES

MINISTER CALLED

By Princeton Baptist. The Rev. Walter P. Carvin has been called as new minister of Princeton Baptist Church, Penns Neck, effective February 3. He succeeds the Rev. S. Robert Weaver, who resigned last fall. The Rev. Harold Stoddard has been serving as interim minister.

The Rev. Mr. Carvin, who lives in East Orange, is currently serving as associate pastor of Mount Zion Baptist Church, Newark. He is 34 years old, married, and has three children.

A graduate of Wheaton College, Wheaton, Ill., the Rev. Mr. Carvin received his B.D. from Eastern Baptist Seminary. He did graduate work at the University of Pennsylvania's Union Seminary.

BULLETIN NOTES

● The Seminary Wives Fellowship of Princeton Theological Seminary will meet this Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Campus Center. The program will feature a preview of the Seminary's Sesquicentennial Observance, staged by the Rev. James E. Andrews, director of publicity. Members of the Fellowship's executive council will model costumes, loaned by McCarter Theatre, depicting the Sesquicentennial period.

● The United Young Adult Fellowship will meet Sunday at 8 p.m. at First Presbyterian Church. A tape recording of a radio program, "Burlap Bags," will be played, and a discussion period will follow. Refreshments will be served.

● The seventh annual "Snow Ball" of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, Pennington, will be held Friday, January 26, from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. at Pennington Grammar School. Kenneth A. Marden is general chairman. Admission will be $3.50 per couple.

Dear TRAVELEX,

I've just heard about a terrific "Sun and Art" Tour to Spain and Portugal! All you artists both amateur and professional can go on a very special trip led by Dr. Marques Reitzel! Your first stop will he in ESTORIL BEACH with lots of time for sun bathing and art in Lisbon. Then on to Madrid and the glorious art treasures of EL PRADO. Then you'll visit the colorful fishing villages on Costa del Sol on the blue, blue Mediteranean Sea. Even if you've never held a paint brush you'll be tempted to get those gorgeous colors down on paper or canvas!

You can leave New York on February 12, or 27 or March 14. Tell everybody to come on down to TRAVELEX to make their plans for seventeen days they'll NEVER forget!

As ever,

Nancy

EXCLUSIVE LISTING. Custom-built, three-year-old white clapboard Colonial. Large entrance hall, panelled study with built-in bar; living room with fireplace and bookcases, and doors opening to flagstone terrace; a separate dining room, modern kitchen with breakfast area, laundry room and entry hall for service. Also four bedrooms; the master bedroom has its own dressing room, and three-and-one-half baths. Full size basement and attached two-car garage. $78,000

NEED A LVR/FPL? Realtese can be a weirdly confounding language, e.g., "lvr/fpl" for "living room with fireplace." Or "split level rancher," which suggests to us a schizoid cowpoke rather than a house. We favor calling a "spd" a spade. For example, here's a brick and clapboard home in Princeton with a small, but charming, fenced yard and handsome trees. Three bedrooms, 1½ baths. Living room, dining room, study. Fine kitchen, full-size basement, garage. $37,500

PERHAPS PRINCETON'S FINEST home for the small family. Whitewashed brick, one-story traditional with Federal style overtones designed with luxurious spaciousness in a lovely West side location within pleasant walking distance to the heart of town. Dramatic entrance hall, beautifully proportioned living room with fireplace and French windows. Separate dining room that lends itself to formal entertaining. Two bedrooms with lavish closet space, two fully tiled baths with glass enclosed tubs and showers. Mahogany-panelled study with recessed bookshelves and convenient powder room. Superbly equipped kitchen with wall ovens, counter burners, dishwasher and refrigerator. House completely air conditioned, oversized two-car garage, large basement easily convertible into extra rooms. Delightful screened porch overlooking easily maintained grounds. EXCLUSIVE LISTING and available immediately. $67,500

PAS DE CHAUFFEUSE. Your wife can happily turn in her hackie's badge if you live in this Princeton Borough home. So convenient is it to the Campus, to schools, stores and the like that even the children won't mind walking—much. Situated on a soothingly quiet street, the house has five (repeat five) bedrooms, 2½ baths. Living room with fireplace, sunny dining room, study. Excellent kitchen, full basement easily convertible into a fun-and-games for the young. You can move right in for: $36,000

URBS IN RURE. Princeton, to twist old Martial's epigram about, is the perfect urbs in rure (city in the country, you know). You name it, Princeton has it, including this newly built home in a most attractive setting. The house has three bedrooms, two-and-a-half baths, large living room, dining room. Panelled recreation room with fireplace and doors to terrace. Large kitchen, breakfast area, laundry. Carpeting, draperies, washer and dryer. Fully air conditioned. $52,500

HOUSE LISTINGS WANTED

In spite of so-called slack season, we find we have more clients anxious to buy than we have houses to sell. We need houses in all price categories, particularly four bedroom homes in Township and Borough, around $30,000.

Also need older homes and newer ranches in out-lying sections with some acreage, around $25,000

We have clients ready to build, need several lots in Township; one in Borough. Needed several in-close in rural sections.

Please get in touch with us if you wish to sell. Thank you.

ENGINEERS
CHALLENGE

Today's unprecedented technical acceleration toward automation presents another new challenge to America's Engineers and Scientists. Accepting this challenge, BROWN INSTRUMENTS' scientific staff is developing bold new techniques in Industrial and scientific measurement and control.

Whether your interest lies in Electronic or Mechanical Development work . . . in Chemical Engineering or in Product Engineering, you'll find the scientific climate just right for truly creative engineering work and the current programs most stimulating. Current openings are for:

RESEARCH

Engineers with a BS or MS in Chemical Engineering or Chemistry and at least 2 years' experience in pH measurement, polarography or similar electrochemical techniques, will be assigned to the development of measuring devices for industrial use utilizing electrochemical principles. Experience in pollution control and/or water treatment is desirable but not essential.

DEVELOPMENT

Electronic engineers with a BS or MS in electrical engineering and a minimum of 3 years' experience in transistor circuitry design. Will be assigned to projects presently active or contemplated in the development of high gain low level DC servo amplifiers; computing elements for industrial process control loops utilizing transistor and magnetic amplifier circuitry; high gain wide bond DC amplifier development and other sophisticated solid state circuits for use in advanced measuring and controlling systems and precision laboratory instrumentation.

Mechanical engineers should have a BS or MS degree and a strong theoretical background with a minimum of 3 years' experience in the design and development of precision mechanical, electro mechanical or pneumatic devices. The assignments will be the development of industrial measurement control and display devices, and will require an understanding of instrument dynamics as well as a knowledge of design for minimum costs consistent with good product quality.

SUPERVISION

Engineers with a BS or MS in electrical engineering or engineering physics, and a minimum of 5-7 years' experience in research or advanced engineering, a strong servo background plus design and application of solid state circuitry. Will supervise in the field of industrial instrumentation. Previous supervisory or work direction experience is desirable.

Engineers for all assignments must be capable of establishing project goals with the help of their section supervisor and thereafter assume primary responsibility for their phase of a project from the initial conception in research thru the development, evaluation and manufacturing phases.

Engineers interested in the above opportunities should forward a complete resume of their education, past experience and salary requirements, to:
